Jeff Jorgensen and Gary Leffler, Speakers

Jeff Jorgensen introduced Gary Leffler, who presented most of the program. Also present was Jason Bliley, projectionist. Courtney Kreider, WOWTV reporter, attended as she had reported the story at the time. Gary and Jeff were part of a group of Iowans in Washington, DC January 6 for President Trump's Rally. They stated that what they observed and experienced was different than what has been on national news.

They expressed that over 1 million people were there and easily could have been 1.5 million. Pictures taken from the top of the stage were shown of the crowd. This was in contrast to the 30,000 reported by CBS, who said that info came from the FBI.

Leffler prefaced his D.C. comments by sharing his experiences and pictures of participating in many national and state patriotic events the past few years with his "Patriotic Tractor". The tractor has the names of 15 of his family who have served in the military for generations and includes one who is a policeman in Minneapolis serving during the 2020 riots. The tractor also has other meaningful symbols including a hologram of an eagle. When asked why he does this, Leffler said he does it for the next generation.

He also explained that he has participated in numerous Trump rallies and there has never been a problem or violence.

Leffler stated that on that morning of the Rally on January 6, at no time was there any reference to not being patriotic in the speeches. If violence was the intention, it would have been planned weeks in advance.

When the crowd left the Rally, they marched up Constitution Ave to the Capitol and there were people singing patriotic songs and chanting "USA". There were no bricks or torches. When they got to the entrance of the Capitol, the bicycle barricades/gates, which are always there, had been removed which was very unusual. Capitol Police had opened them up (video available). Gary said on the back side it was like a family reunion with people talking and having a good time. This is the side where the Supreme Court and Library of Congress are located. People on the back side were unaware of what was happening on the other side of the Capitol until later.

He says the 50-150 people who went into the building, causing destruction, and assaulting a police officer should be prosecuted to the letter of the law, but it is wrong to call the multitudes there as part of the Rally, 'terrorists and insurrectionists'.

Leffler was interviewed by CBS for three hours on that Tues and Wed, Jan. 6-7, but on Thurs he was told by CBS they wouldn't run the story. He saw unusual actions by the Capitol Police and asked that one picture be printed which he feels showed irrefutable evidence that people were allowed into the Capitol, but CBS didn't permit it.

Today Leffler was asked how we fix the problem. He feels Congress must pass voter ID or election laws so the American people feel the election is fair. Mail-in balloting is illegal in every industrial country in the world. Absentee balloting is totally separate and legal. He feels Paul Pate doesn't get enough credit because he runs a fair election in Iowa. He stated there are 73 million people who still feel the national election wasn't right. What went wrong must be addressed, or unrest will continue. He also spoke out in favor of making sure civics/government classes are put back in the schools.
